Introducing Caring4Cal, a workforce training program funded by the California Department of Health Care Access and Information (HCAI)

Caring4Cal is a workforce development program created to expand, enhance, and strengthen California's Home- and Community-Based Services (HCBS) through free training, coaching, and incentives paid up to $2,750.

This initiative works to increase access to health services for rural communities, children with complex medical conditions, individuals with disabilities, and care for older adults.

Licensed or certified healthcare providers who would like to work in-home and those who would like to start a career providing care in-home and community settings have access to the following services:

- Hundreds of no-cost training courses that boost care provider skills and accelerate careers
- Free personal coaching to help set goals, develop an action plan, and stay on track
- Paid incentives of up to $2,750 for eligible care providers

Caring4Cal supports Californians in developing the skills and knowledge essential to starting or growing a career as a licensed or certified healthcare provider in the home and community.
